OKUSAMA WA JOSHIKOUSEI MIYOKO SAMA 3

HIYOKO KOBAYASHI

AUTHOR'S NOTE

This is the third volume.

At first I was a little distraught over whether to do the colour shorts in regular manga style or not, and I kept making mistakes in this volume, but I think overall this series is heading in the right direction. (・人・)

When I'm modeling Asami's physical features, I like to use my favourite gravure idols, but when modeling her character, I use the actions of the girls I know around me as the base. The first friend that I modeled her after was actually mature from the inside out and still continues to live vicariously. (^^;)

However, I still picture Asami's voice to come from that same friend. When I try to form dialogue, I always end up having Asami speak in that friend's voice.

It's cute and calm, something like Nausicaa or Ran from Conan or Fiolina from Marco, something along those lines.

Now then! Everyone, I'd like you all to now imagine her voice!! Fiolina's voice may be a bit too dark. I tried imagining with Diana and Kurara but they seemed somehow off, crap. I love Takahata, but Takahata heroines' voices don't work. (;;)

The cat Kuri-chan is actually named after one of my own cats. My Kuri is a brown tiger striped cat.

By the way...

Every time, I feel as if I'm writing the same thing, and this time is no different. (;人;)

Rather, I barely make it on time with the serialized version as it is, and now I have to work on the manga version, so it's not an exaggeration to say my work never ends, though now it seems I may have caught up, so do I say "Good job, me!"?! Since no one else will say it I thought I'd say it to myself. (Right now, my staff is giving me the silent treatment. It hurts.) Once I finish this I have already-late work for the serialization. I'm sorry, everyone on my staff.

And to the Comics supervisor-san who waited oh-so patiently for me to finish the color pages.

Thank you so, so much!

Thanks to you, I was able to rid my self disgust despite my overgrowing anxiety, and concentrate on my work.
